This activity is jointly provided by Postgraduate Institute for Medicine and American Academy of HIV Medicine, in collaboration with MAO Learning Center.

This activity is supported by an independent educational grant from Gilead Sciences Inc.

Keynote Speaker

Carlos A. Reyes-Sacín, MD, AAHIVS, FACP
Infectious Diseases Specialist, Medical Advocacy & Outreach
Montgomery, Alabama

Target Audience

This activity has been designed to meet the educational needs of physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, registered nurses, and pharmacists; this activity is also designed for healthcare professionals who treat or manage patients with HIV such as registered nurses, nutritionists, social workers, case managers, as well as case workers and secondary service providers who work in non-medical fields of care of patients with HIV.

Statement of Need/Program Overview

AAHIVM can utilize its vast network of HIV Specialist HCPs across the country to reach clinics, providers (particularly general/family practice HCPs) and patients who need understanding and training regarding the effectiveness and availability of PrEP, when and how to screen for HIV disease (assess for risk) and how best to refer/link to care when additional specialization is required for treatment.

Educational Objectives

After completing this activity, the participant should be better able to:

- Identify populations/patients at risk for HIV acquisition
- Recite evidence of the need for PrEP acquisition/Identify the components of PrEP
- Identify the role of the pharmacist in using PrEP
- Discuss the issue of adolescent PrEP use
- Identify resources for care linkage, preceptorships and other HIV prevention and treatment educational opportunities
